The Twisted Collection

From ancient Egyptian artifacts to haunted paintings, Nicola's collection is a blend of macabre and supernatural. One of his most prized possessions is an antique mirror believed to be the gateway to the spirit world. This mirror, adorned with intricate carvings and ornate details, has become Nicola's gateway to the eerie and unknown.

But it doesn't stop there. Among the numerous relics that Nicola has accumulated over the years, one stands out in particular - an ancient voodoo doll. Rumored to bring misfortune and despair to those who possess it, this cursed item is said to have caused a string of inexplicable events, leaving a trail of broken lives in its wake.

The Rituals

Behind closed doors, Nicola engages in secret rituals, including summoning ancient spirits and communing with supernatural entities. He believes that these rituals grant him control over the cursed relics, and through them, he gains power over those who dare to oppose him. Witnesses claim to have seen him performing arcane ceremonies at midnight, surrounded by a dimly lit room adorned with mysterious symbols.

From Kingsley Tufts Award finalist Kathy Fagan comes Bad Hobby, a perceptive collection focused on memory, class, and might-have-beens.

In a working-class family that considers sensitivity a “fatal diagnosis,” how does a child grow up to be a poet? What happens when a body “meant to bend & breed” opts not to, then finds itself performing the labor of care regardless? Why do we think our “common griefs” so singular? Bad Hobby is a hard-earned meditation on questions like these—a dreamscape speckled with swans, ghosts, and weather updates.

Fagan writes with a kind of practical empathy, lamenting pain and brutality while knowing, also, their inevitability. A dementing father, a squirrel limp in the talons of a hawk, a “child who won’t ever get born”: with age, Fagan posits, the impact of ordeals like these changes. Loss becomes instructive. Solitude becomes a shared experience. “You think your one life precious—”

And Bad Hobby thinks—hard. About lineage, about caregiving. About time. It paces “inside its head, gazing skyward for a noun or phrase to / shatter the glass of our locked cars & save us.” And it does want to save us, or at least lift us, even in the face of immense bleakness, or loneliness, or the body changing, failing. “Don’t worry, baby,” Fagan tells us, the sparrow at her window. “We’re okay.”
